Placement Service in Full Swing

Over 350 NWMSC graduates have been placed in teaching and industrial positions. According to the Field Service Office this is the biggest year for placements. It seems that there are still jobs but no more graduates.

In the administrative field of education, Missouri claimed fourteen of NWMSC personnel, while Iowa claimed two, and Nebraska, Wisconsin, California claimed one each. The approximate average salary was $7,000.

Thirteen were placed in business teaching in Iowa, seven in Missouri, two in Nebraska, and one in Kansas and California.

Missouri took eleven in mathematics teaching, Iowa took six, California took three, and Nebraska, Colorado, and New Mexico took one each.

Missouri took 45 elementary teachers while Iowa followed with 22. Other schools claiming NWMSC elementary teachers were: Colorado 6; California and Kansas 5; Illinois 3; and Texas, New Mexico, Ohio, Wyoming, and Washington 1.

Two people will be teaching speech and dramatics in New Mexico and Iowa. Missouri took ten English teachers, with five going to Iowa, and two to California. In Foreign Languages, Missouri hired four, and Iowa and Kansas took one each.

Missouri claimed seventeen men physical education teachers, more than its two neighboring states of Iowa and Kansas, which got thirteen and two, respectively. DZ's Hold Alumnae Picnic

The Delta Zeta alumnae family picnic was held Wednesday, July 18, at Beal Park.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fields — Carol and Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Scott and Marcie, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Eisenbarger, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker and Bettye Carolyn, Miss Connie Johnson, and Miss Louise Lovell.

At a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Eisenbarger, president, the alumnae charter for the Epsilon Rho chapter was accepted. The charter had previously been presented to Dr. Wanda Walker by Mrs. Audrey Barr, Province Alumnae Chapter Director, at the National biennial Delta Zeta convention in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Senior Sendoff

The senior sendoff in Roberta Hall was held July 18, featuring the theme International Holidays. Linda K. Jones, dorm chairman, was in charge.

The program consisted of the prophecy of the graduating senior girls, read by Donna Krieger; a French fashion show which showed what to wear and where to wear it on NWMSC campus (den, room, and roof attire, also (what to run into the houseboy in); three songs, one in French, one in Swedish, and one in English, by Kathy Johnson singing and accompanying herself on the guitar; and an around the world cruise presented by the freshman girls (red headed women, Jamaican cha-chaers, Frenchmen, and African cannibals Limboing appeared).

After the program Mrs. Helen Larsen, housemother, presented the seniors with engraved silver spoons and "Auld Lang Syne" was sung. Then the seniors were guests at a tea.

MSC Needs $2,947,475 In Capital Improvements

When members of a Missouri legislative committee toured the campus of Northwest Missouri State College, Wednesday, they were told the need for $2,947,475 capital improvements to the educational facilities by Dr. J. W. Jones, MSC president.

The group of four state senators and six representatives also were shown the progress of a 1961-1963 appropriation for $696,958 in improvements to the physical plant.

Those people interested in obtaining the College newspaper after graduation should contact the Northwest Missourian Office and leave their mailing address.

Where's the Reporters, Asks the Missourian

Positions are still open on the Northwest Missourian for the fall semester.

A course in journalism is not required to be eligible to be a reporter. But if a student desires to take a journalism course he will not receive any pay for the work on the paper. Otherwise, the job takes about two hours a week, but it pays.

Dr. Jones advised the solons, who are members of the senate and house appropriations committees, that requests have been made for the nearly $3 million improvements during the 1963 - 1965 fiscal period.

Under construction or repairs underway include roof and gutter repairs, $50,000; lighting in the administration building, $11,000; new home management house, $75,000; boiler, $156,175; new roads, $150,000.

Asks Fine Arts Building

The key request is a $2,000,000 fine arts building, while the other requests are for improvements or additions.

The others are: addition to the library, $750,000; renovation to the Horace Mann training school, $75,000; stack and water softener for the heating plant, $65,000; and instructional equipment, $57,475.

Current construction of dormitories and improvements to the Union building are being done under a loan from a U. S. government agency.

New English Program to Start This Fall

Dr. Frank Grube reports that the new English program is ready to come into effect this fall when school starts.

A new section, English 10 has been added. The members of this section and English 11 and 12 will be determined by the raw scores from the University of Missouri English Placement Test taken by high school seniors this past spring. Scores 0-42 will be assigned to English 10, 43-82 to English 11, and 83-115 to English 12.

Staff Bids Farewell

Your campus weekly bids farewell for the summer. This issue will be the last time the Northwest Missourian will be published until September 19. News for that issue must be at the Missourian office Sept. 14.

Gary Rickman has served as managing editor during the summer session, with Joyce Dorrel, Sharon Nelson and Larry Schulenberg as page editors. Reporters were Judy Bolon, Jim Offenbacker and Duniho.

THE COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

NWMSC Students Make Use of Den

The congenial den mother, Mrs. Schenkel, who will celebrate a birthday July 27, probably gets pretty disgusted and aggravated at all the complaints and snide remarks emanating from the "den rats". . . But, have you ever really thought about all the "good" things about the campus hang-out?

It's more than a place to play cards, hear the latest news or buy a new pen. It offers more than a juke box and a snack bar. The den is a place to unwind, to really know the rest of the student body, to air and discuss the "vital" issues, and share a cup of coffee with the faculty.

There is a certain small college in Missouri which does not enjoy the advantages of a Union Building such as ours. How do they exist? Perhaps they don't. . .

Do You Remember . . .

Novels of the year were "Andersonville" by Mackinlay Kant-or, "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit" by Sloan Wilson, "Marjorie Morningstar" by Herman Wouk, and "No Time for Sergeants" by Mae Hyman.

It's so high you can't go over it; so low you can't get under it; so wide you can't go around it. What is it? Why, it's the Stroller. Who else could it be?

Almost a year ago the stroller ran across some definitions. For the imaginative mind, do you know

COED: An abbreviated form.

SEMESTER: The pointing out, or calling attention to an instructor who does not have his doctorate, but is only a mes-ter.

EDUCATION: A feeble at-tempt to organize disorganiza-tion.

FRESHMAN: Censored by editor of Northwest Missourian. See author for a full statement.

FINE ARTS: A group of gen-tlemen named Art who are very well thought of.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY: A study of finding suitable hus-bands for female animals.

MATHEMATICS: A study of why maths get into attics.

ECONOMICS: Icky comics which are not funny.

The stroller found one student possessing an article of extreme importance to our government-al policies. It goes something like this: "Jack Kennedy has found an asset to America in Academic Economist Heller; 8 billion more in debt (temporari-ly, of course), gold reserves still declining, and the market down 150 points. With such an impressively "minus" record, I can hardly wait for the new tax reforms.

"Now that our energetic leader has "this country mov-ing again," it would be nice to try a forward gear," by E. J. O'Neill.

Of course the stroller is com-pletely blase in this matter, but one should remember that if our country needs a loan, Jack can ask his dad!!!!

The stroller has overheard a student commenting on the number of classes he has missed during the summer se-mester. A word of advice from the wise is in order. How can you expect the teacher to be fair in grading when you don't attend class? You can't possi-bly obtain the necessary infor-mation from another student. Everyone has his own inter-pretation of the class notes. So remember, When in Rome do as the Romans do.

With summer school about over, the stroller wishes all stu-dents a happy relief time. It seems from various rumors there will be a lot of vacations taken during August. Be care-ful, because you'll miss the stroller next fall.

The student body and faculty wish to extend their sympathies to Miss Jane Duniho upon the death of her father.

Miss Duniho is feature writ-er on the staff of the Northwest Missourian.

For Eggheads and Other . . . Comprehensive Examinations

As if there haven't been enough pop tests and examinations thus far this year, I have compiled a short list of questions de-signed to test your logic. They are quite simple, and if you en-joy them, I shall submit to all professors the idea for adopting such logical questions in any forthcoming exams they might have in mind. There are nine questions which should take a maximum of two and one half minutes to answer.

1. You go to bed at eight o'clock in the evening and set the alarm to get up at nine in the morning. How many hours of sleep would this allow you?
2. How many birthdays does the average man have?
3. Why can't a man living in Miami, Florida, be buried west of the Mississippi?
4. If you had only one match and entered a room where there was a lamp, an oil heater, and some kindling wood, which would you light first?
5. How far can a dog run into the woods?
6. A woman gave a beggar 50 cents. The woman is the beg-ger's sister, but the beggar is not the woman's brother. Why?
7. One month has 28 days. Of the remaining 11 months, how many have 30 days?
8. Two men play five games of chess, and each wins five games. How come?
9. There is a house with four southern exposures; there is a bear running toward the house. What color is the bear?

ANSWERS

1. One hour, because the alarm will ring an hour after you set it.
2. One—the average man, every man is born only once and so has only one birthday.
3. He is still alive, so he cannot be buried anywhere.
4. The match.
5. Halfway. After that re is running out of the woods.
6. The beggar is a woman.
7. All the other 11 months at least 30 days.
8. They are not playing each other.
9. White: a polar bear. . . The house must be at the North Pole to have four southern exposures.

Drew Thate, Cary Veach, and Ron Whitaker played the role of "mighty" elephants at the first grade Big Top show held July 19.

MSC 'Voted' Campus Beautiful

A syndicated columnist whose "beat" includes the Great White Way has popularized the idea of giving orchids in words to people who do something quite outstanding.

We cannot quite afford or-chids, so daisies or carnations will have to do in this case. Whoever is responsible for see-ing that the campus has such a beautiful face to put forth, certainly deserves a word of thanks and commendation from the student body.

Whenever a group of students representing the various small colleges in Missouri gather and conversation centers around the respective campus, Mary-ville is most generally voted the "campus beautiful".

Even though many thought-less students find it easier and shorter to take an occasional short cut, we still appreciate all the hard work . . . keep it up.

Lawman 'Roams' the Campus

Beware, college students; A policeman is on the prowl among you.

Everett Walker, a junior at NWMSC, has joined the Maryville police department as a patrolman.

Before coming to Maryville, Walker was a student at St. Joseph Junior College as a pre-law student and worked there on that city's police force.

Mr. Walker, while in St. Jo-seph attended the Northwest-ern University Traffic Insti-tute and FBI training institute. He also took the Fundamental Policy Traffic and Law En-forcement Officer courses.

The new patrolman is mar-ried and has five children. The Walkers live at 227 West First Street — so speeders, watch the zones on first street.!

Pencil Basis For Feature Story

"Even the common place lead pencil is the basis for a feature story," said Miss Mattie E. Dykes, as she addressed the Publications Workshop at NWMSC, July 11.

Miss Dykes, author and teacher, spoke on "Feature Stories Are Everywhere" to a group of students and teachers attending the first high school publications workshop to be held on the campus.

Cautioning the group that "rambling spoils many a story," she urged them to "read, read, read—to see how others are doing what you are trying to do; and to gain inspiration."

Thirty-two students were placed in businesses or in assistantships in universities. NWMSC placed three graduating students on its staff, while Kansas City Junior College placed one.

Dorothy Hauser, who will work in industry in the Canal Zone, was placed the farthest from NWMSC.

How to Be an Individual

When a girl comes to college as a freshman and is away from home for the first time, she is usually in a whirl with a new feeling of independence. Dependable Mom and Dad are not around to tell her how to wear her hair or how short to wear her dresses. With Mom and Dad gone, she must learn a new sense of responsibility.

With her leaders gone, the lamb must find a new leader, a close friend, or a girl that she hardly knows. She begins to copy hair styles, habits, and activities. If the girl wants to be an individual, she must not copy, but use her own ideas.

An unbelievable number of girls wear short skirts, not because they look well, but because their friends wear them. Some girls are just not suited to short skirts. For example, a tall girl does not look well dressed in a skirt that flaps above her knees.

Tight shorts are sometimes worn by girls who would look better in a skirt, but again, their girl friends wear them and they feel they must. A barrel would have about the same effect on some girls as a long, baggy sweat shirt. They are not content to wear it in private. They must wear them shopping, on dates, and anywhere else in general.

Teased hair is fine for the girl who can wear a big bubble-like hair style. However, dainty girls would look top heavy. A large girl map appear even larger than she actually is if she does not choose apparel appropriate for herself. Yet, girls feel they must do as the crowd does therefore they tease hair.

Often a girl thinks she must join all clubs and attend all social functions. Going with someone she hardly knows or dislikes is often the pattern she follows. She feels that she must conform to all the habits her classmates pick up, such as smoking and drinking. Smoking and drinking are not essential for popularity, and people will probably like her better if she acts herself.

It all adds up to the same thing. She cannot copy and yet be an individual person. She must use her own ideas. Experimentation with clothes and hair styles would be best done in private. Being one's self requires accepting independence and responsibility.

Chalk Talk . . . Bob Cobb

In 1929, the stock-market was on the decline, but basketball fortunes at NWMSC were on the rise to their greatest heights.

These reactions were stimulated by a group of aggressive Maryville cagers. This quintet was mentored by Henry Iba and was known as the "Incredible Maryville Bearcats."

This aggregation of top-caliber athletes compiled one of the most phenomenal records in cage history. In the 1929-30 season these supercharged Bearcats won thirty-one consecutive games without a loss.

After being undefeated for almost two years, and running their win-treak to forty-two straight, the men of "Iron Duke" Iba were finally defeated in 1931. Their record of 42 consecutive victories was not broken until 1956 by the San Francisco team, which was spear-headed by Bill Russell. As far as we know, thirty-one straight in a single roundball season still stands to this date.

Several members of the 1929-30 Bearcats became famous coaches and athletes. Here is the starting five:

Forwards: Herman Fisher, former AAU All-American Chuck Finley, current University of Idaho coach.

Guards: Wilber "Sparky" Stalcup, former head basketball coach at M.U. Howard Iba, Team-captain, and coach at St. Joe Central.

Center: "Jumping-Jack" McCracken.

McCracken was the team's leading scorer, and most versatile player as a freshman. The 6'4" center enjoyed such an outstanding career that he was named AAU All-American nine times.

In 1939, The Helms Athletic Foundation voted McCracken as the AAU's "Greatest Player of All Time."

Rounding out the rest of the squad, present NWMSC Athletic Director, Ryland Milner, and Clarence Iba, University of Tulsa mentor served as stand-out reserves, and gave the 'Cats excellent bench strength.

We salute this fine group of athletes who gave their best to bring glory and honor to NWMSC—the 1929-30 Maryville Bearcats.

Jacob was negotiating a loan from his brother, Solly. Solly was willing to make an advance, but demanded 9 percent.

"Well," said Jacob, "I ain't kickin', y' understand, but vot'll our poor dear dead fader say when he looks down and sees his son gouging 9 percent out of his own flesh and blood?"

"Don't you worry about that, Jacob," replied the lender, affably. "From where he is it'll look like 6 percent."—Tit-Bits.

Attention Motorists!!

According to the legend, there once was a little old lady who drove her car only in the day time, and never over 30 m.p.h.

This legend becomes a myth at some used car lot. Of course the car lot is owned by I. C. Fish. Fish gives the "fishiest" deals in town. Of course we all know that slow driving and short trips build up engine acids and sluge that cut a car's useful life drastically.

We'd all be better off with a car once owned by an enthusiastic driver who kept it in top condition. One who took long trips over turnpikes at 60 or 65 m.p.h. This type of driving habit could improve your gasoline bill by $75 to $100 a year.

The moral to this story is that all fish live longer in a sluge free environment.

Flight Test of a Glider

What are classes for? Why, for learning something, of course! And since this college has recognized the value of teaching English, English classes can be used to learn to fly paper gliders in other classes.

There are two essential requirements. One of these, of course, is the sheet of paper—our basic material. The other necessity is that the teacher be gone from the room. This is absolutely essential, because for some reason, unknown to me, teachers invariably do not seem to understand us, who believe in learning by doing. They do not appreciate the grandeur of a magnificent fleet of glistening white airplanes floating in wide circles overhead.

These teachers see no splendor in the rise of a delicate, perfect plane as it flies over the thermal current of warm air from the radiator. They undoubtedly close their eyes to the finer things of life.

The least attractive things about gliders is the fact that they can be made from such a wide variety of paper. One of the best materials is an English test which has just received a very low grade—the lower the better.

It gives a person a certain satisfaction if, upon receiving the paper, he can curl his lip in contempt, and, with a disdainful glint in his eye and an unconcerned expression on his face, scornfully fold the paper into an airplane.

In a classroom here is never a lack of suitable raw material, for notebooks and trash cans are full of it. But the most encouraging things of all is the attitude of the spectators.

When a model airplane builder flies a larger plane before a group of less well-

Going on A Trip

Planning a vacation or a trip? Well, it may not be of the same caliber as the John Glenn or Scott Carpenter orbits but why not make the trip one which you yourself will always remember and look back upon with satisfaction.

Travel can be a passport to rich experiences or it can be a roadblock to vacation fun. Whichever it becomes for you may depend to a large extent on how successfully you avoid certain major problems that travelers often forget. Here are a few of those problems:

1. Money: Always estimate the amount you think you will need for each day. Then you won't be running short.

2. Valuables: Make two lists of all your valuables. Keep one list in your billfold and the other in your suitcase. This gives you proof of anything you might lose.

3. Fatigue: Be sure and stop often. This will keep you alert and also give the children a chance to exercise as they will become restless on long trips.

4. Speed: Always drive at a safe rate of speed. The best way is to stay within the speed limit of the state you are visiting.

above the class, if you have ever heard the sighs of sympathy and pity as it whirls in a pathetic tailspin toward the floor, if you have ever listened to the thunderous crash as ten boys dive at the same time to pick it up—then you know just what I mean.
